

GRANTEE PARTNER PRESS RELEASE TEMPLATE

Below is a template for a press release that can be populated with your information and provided to local media. If you choose, you may also craft your own release and submit it to us for approval.

Please do not use a Newman's Own Foundation logo/letterhead or boilerplate at the end of the release. Rather, use your own organization's logo/letterhead and boilerplate.

TIPS AND TRICKS FOR WRITING PRESS RELEASES

- Headline: This tells readers what the release is about, so it's important to make sure it's concise, engaging, and includes the necessary information.
- First paragraph: Make sure it can answer who, what, when, where, and why.
- Quotes: These personalize the story and highlight significant details about the organization and its cause.
 - Quotes can be from anyone who is important to your organization and is an approved external representative, such as a CEO, president, founder, etc.
- Boilerplate: This is essentially an "about us" section at the end of the release that gives a brief overview of your organization and what it does.
- Use succinct language!
- Proofread! Make sure to have a few people look at the release prior to sending it out.
- Try and keep it to one page, though two is acceptable.

HOW TO SEND TO LOCAL, NATIONAL, OR INDUSTRY MEDIA WITHOUT ACCESS TO A PR PERSON?

- Find "pitch a story" or "submit a news tip" email addresses or contact forms on media websites. These are often found on "contact us" pages.
- You can distribute your press release for a fee using services like E-Releases and PRNewswire, which beyond reaching media also help with website SEO.
- Find more places to submit your press release by googling "press release submissions."
